

James E. Stahl, M.D., C.M., M.P.H

James E. Stahl, M.D., C.M., M.P.H. is a practicing board-certified internist and a Senior scientist at the MGH-Institute for Technology Assessment, Director of the MGH Outpatient RFID project and Read Trust Research Director for North Shore Medical Center. He is an outcomes researcher with expertise in decision analysis, and health technology assessment, and simulation modeling. His current research examines clinical process redesign and the application of new technologies in the outpatient setting, transplant allocation and organ replacement technologies, and technology and ethics.